Review Frequency: Every year

Reviewed By: Governing Body, Headteacher, Attendance Lead

Privacy notices must be concise, transparent, intelligible, easily accessible and free of charge. They must be written in clear and plain language. The privacy notice fulfils the school's obligation to inform. The notices must be honest – people must be informed of how their personal data is being used.

What is the right to be informed and why is it important?

The right to be informed covers some of the key transparency requirements of Data Protection Legislation. It is about providing individuals with clear and concise information about what you do with their personal data.

An effective approach can help you to comply with other aspects of the Act, foster trust with individuals and obtain more useful information from them.

Getting this wrong can leave you open to fines and lead to reputational damage.

What privacy information should we provide to individuals?

What you need to tell people differs slightly depending on whether you collect personal data from the individual it relates to or obtain it from another source. Annexes A to C are the template Privacy Notices for the school. These must be completed and published in a prominent position on the school's website.

Consent to collect data

The school will need to collect consent to use data where there is no legal basis, for example to use biometric data. An example consent form can be found in Annex D. Consent must be freely given, specific, informed and an unambiguous indication of the individual's wishes.

Privacy Notices and paper forms

Sometimes it is not possible to recreate privacy notices on printed material, such as on a consent form for school trips form. In instances such as this use the following statement:

Electronic forms:

The National Pupil Database (NPD)

The NPD is owned and managed by the Department for Education (DfE) and contains information about pupils in schools in England. It provides invaluable evidence on educational performance to inform independent research, as well as studies commissioned by the Department. It is held in electronic format for statistical purposes. This information is securely collected from a range of sources including schools, local authorities and awarding bodies.

We are required to pass information about our pupils to the DfE under Regulation 5 and Schedule 1 of The Education \(Information About Individual Pupils\) \(England\) Regulations 2013 as part of statutory data collections such as the school census and early years' census. Some of this information is then stored in the NPD.

This information will, in turn, then be made available for use by the Local Authority who, under strict information sharing protocols and policies, may also be required to share this information with other public sector partners such as other Local Authorities or local Children Centre.

Decisions on whether DfE releases data to third parties are subject to a strict approval process and based on a detailed assessment of:

- the purpose for which it is required
- the level and sensitivity of data requested: and
- the arrangements in place to store and handle the data

To be granted access to pupil information, organisations must comply with strict terms and conditions covering the confidentiality and handling of the data, security arrangements and retention and use of the data.

Changing schools

As per The Education \(Pupil Information\) \(England\) Regulations 2005, we are required to pass pupil information on to schools that the pupil goes on to attend after leaving us. We do this via the Department for Education's 'School to School' \(S2S\) secure data transfer website. This also acts as a temporary information depository where a pupil has left us and the destination is not known to us.

The NHS

Information will only be passed to the NHS where we have a legal / statutory obligation to do so or where it is fully anonymous and cannot identify individuals, to the extent of no longer being personal data. Where the NHS otherwise require personal data for the provision of a service or research, parental and / or pupil consent will always be sought on a case by case basis.

CCTV

Our school uses Closed Circuit Television cameras for the purposes of monitoring our premises and to support any pupil behavioural policies. We may be required to disclose CCTV images to authorised third parties such as the police to assist with crime prevention or at the behest of a court order.
